

At last year's SCSBA and CHAS conference, these cute little Tea Pot toppers (or that's what I thought they were) were knitted and auctioned off at each table. I was the owner of this one. I thought it might be nice to thank the group who knitted them (might have been the CWL) with a photo. This is my new grand daughter Macy. The little baby toque topper was made like a cupcake with a cherry on top - so sweet. Feel free to share on the SCSBA site or with the knitters from last conference. Loved them.
